
ABSTRACT

Systems and methods wirelessly communicate data over a plurality of cellular channels by requesting an allocation of cellular frequency channels from a mobile station to a base station; allocating available frequency channels in response to the request from 5 the mobile station; and bonding the available frequency channels to communicate data.

00000000000000000000000000000000